

1. Identify an example output of your program. Explain how this output shows an aspect of your program's functionality.