

Solutions

Each answer shows the steps, then the result.

2.1

- the narrator, character or speaker communicates an attitude about that person or character

2.2

- personification gives human qualities to a nonhuman thing; this runs the other way, giving nonhuman qualities to a person

2.3

(a)

- the narrator's, character's or speaker's

(b)

- name the quality assigned, then name the attitude it implies about the person and about the speaker

3.1 A

- an attitude

3.2 A

- the opposite direction

3.3

(a)

- storage without judgment or feeling

(b)

- the colleague is regarded as useful and impersonal, which is a dismissal the speaker has not had to state outright