Work through these after you have tried the questions yourself.

2.1 an individual worker could be replaced, so only collective action changed the bargaining position.

2.2 from laissez-faire towards regulation; any two of factory acts, sanitation, schooling.

2.3 liberals kept the aim of individual freedom and changed their view of what conditions were needed to secure it.

2.4 it described how some middle-class families lived and prescribed that arrangement for others.

2.5 working-class women and children worked for wages, which the ideal excluded. \
