Stress and coping

International Baccalaureate · IB Diploma · Sports, Exercise and Health Science · SL · Vocabulary in context

Word	Example
stress /stres/	The same match can cause different stress in two players.
stressor /ˈstresə/	A difficult final is a stressor that may challenge an athlete.
eustress /ˈjuːstrəs/	Eustress feels like a positive challenge that supports effort.
distress /dɪˈstres/	Distress brings worry that can harm well-being or performance.
transactional model	The transactional model says stress depends on how you judge the task and your ability to cope.
appraise	An athlete may appraise a close match as a challenge.
cortisol /ˈkɔːtɪsɒl/	Cortisol is a stress hormone.
general adaptation syndrome /ˈdʒenərəl ˌædæpˈteɪʃn ˈsɪndrəʊm/	The general adaptation syndrome has three stages: alarm, resistance and exhaustion.
arousal /əˈraʊzl/	Arousal is the level of mental and physical activation.
drive theory	Drive theory says more arousal makes your usual response stronger.
individual zones of optimal functioning	Individual zones of optimal functioning say each athlete has their own best level of arousal.

exercises.lol exercises.com.cn

Word	Example
catastrophe theory	Catastrophe theory says performance can suddenly drop when anxiety is high.
anxiety	Anxiety involves worry and tension about an uncertain outcome.
trait anxiety	A person with high trait anxiety feels nervous in many situations.
state anxiety	State anxiety is temporary anxiety in a particular situation.
cognitive anxiety	Cognitive anxiety includes worry about making mistakes.
somatic anxiety	Somatic anxiety includes physical feelings such as a racing heart.
multidimensional anxiety theory	Multidimensional anxiety theory treats worry and body tension as separate.
coping /ˈkəʊpɪŋ/	Slow breathing is her coping strategy before a difficult match.
problem-focused coping /ˈprɒbləm ˈfəʊkəst ˈkəʊpɪŋ/	Improving a race plan is problem-focused coping.
emotion-focused coping /ɪˈməʊʃn ˈfəʊkəst ˈkəʊpɪŋ/	Slow breathing is emotion-focused coping when used to manage feelings.
avoidance coping	Ignoring a stressful issue is avoidance coping.
social support	Encouragement from teammates provides social support.

Word	Example
burnout	Burnout can involve exhaustion, reduced achievement and loss of interest in sport.

exercises.lol exercises.com.cn