Recap

Writing a Review
↳ Recap

Worked example – a balanced review

Improve this review line: “The film was good. I liked it. You should watch it.”

- “Good” and “liked” give no information – a review must say why.
- A good review is balanced: praise and criticism make it trustworthy.
- “The acting is superb – Chen makes every silence count – though the ending is rushed and left me unconvinced.”
- Finish with a clear recommendation, and say who would enjoy it.

Replace every “good” with a reason and an example. A review that praises everything reads like an advert; one honest criticism makes the praise believable.
