

Adverbs

HSK 3 Grammar

Use the examples with their context and limits. Recall a sentence before reading the model. Original teaching additions accompany examples adapted from Chinese Grammar Wiki (AllSet Learning, CC BY-NC-SA); see the course reference provenance.

又 + Verb + 了 (again, in the past)

■ A familiar problem happens again

- A classmate arrives late today after being late previously.
- 你又迟到了。 – 又 marks today's lateness as a recurrence.

■ Build the form

- The pattern in this lesson is 又 + Verb + 了 (again, in the past). Locate it in the original interlinear examples below.
- Keep the words in their demonstrated positions; the pattern must fit the intended situation as well as the sentence form.

你又迟到了。

nǐ yòu chí dào le

Word guide: 你 – you; 又 – again; 迟到 – late.

■ Read examples in context

又下雨了！

yòu xià yǔ le

Word guide: 又 – again; 下雨 – rain.

- In the opening example, 你又迟到了。: 又 marks today's lateness as a recurrence.
- Explain who acts, what is described and which time or group is relevant before choosing an English paraphrase.

■ Know the boundary

- This finished-event example uses 了, but 又 is not confined to past events.
- 明天又是星期一了 anticipates a known recurrence; 我又不知道 uses another meaning. Choose from the whole sentence.

■ Use the distinction

- 又 marks today's lateness as a recurrence.
- This finished-event example uses 了, but 又 is not confined to past events. 明天又是星期一了 anticipates a known recurrence; 我又不知道 uses another meaning. Choose from the whole sentence.

■ Try it with help closed

A classmate arrives late today after being late previously. Close the examples. Say a Mandarin response, then write it in Chinese. Explain briefly in English what the lesson's pattern adds. Compare with the model, then change one detail and try again.

One possible response: 你又迟到了。

- My response conveys a message that fits the opening situation.
- I can explain the meaning of the pattern, rather than only naming it.
- This finished-event example uses 了, but 又 is not confined to past events.
- 明天又是星期一了 anticipates a known recurrence; 我又不知道 uses another meaning. Choose from the whole sentence.
- I tried a second response with a name, time, place, or description changed.

Practise this pattern step by step.

一直 (all along, continuously)

■ Waiting lasts through a time span

- You wait throughout the morning for news.
- 我一直在等你的消息。 – 一直 describes the continuing wait across that span.

■ Build the form

- The pattern in this lesson is 一直 (all along, continuously). Locate it in the original interlinear examples below.
- Keep the words in their demonstrated positions; the pattern must fit the intended situation as well as the sentence form.

我一直很喜欢你。

wǒ yì zhí hěn xǐ huan nǐ

Word guide: 我 – I; 一直 – all along; 很 – very; 喜欢 – like; 你 – you.

■ Read examples in context

- In the opening example, 我一直在等你的消息。: 一直 describes the continuing wait across that span.
- Explain who acts, what is described and which time or group is relevant before choosing an English paraphrase.

■ Know the boundary

- 一直 also describes enduring habits or a spatial direction, such as 一直往前走.
- It need not mean continuous physical activity every second: 我一直喜欢音乐 describes a lasting preference.

■ Use the distinction

- 一直 describes the continuing wait across that span.
- 一直 also describes enduring habits or a spatial direction, such as 一直往前走. It need not mean continuous physical activity every second: 我一直喜欢音乐 describes a lasting preference.

■ Try it with help closed

You wait throughout the morning for news. Close the examples. Say a Mandarin response, then write it in Chinese. Explain briefly in English what the lesson's pattern adds. Compare with the model, then change one detail and try again.

One possible response: 我一直在等你的消息。

- My response conveys a message that fits the opening situation.
- I can explain the meaning of the pattern, rather than only naming it.
- 一直 also describes enduring habits or a spatial direction, such as 一直往前走.
- It need not mean continuous physical activity every second: 我一直喜欢音乐 describes a lasting preference.
- I tried a second response with a name, time, place, or description changed.

Practise this pattern step by step.

总是 (always – a habit)

■ A classmate is usually late

- A classmate arrives late often enough for you to describe it as a habit.
- 他总是迟到。 – 总是 generalises a recurring pattern of lateness.

■ Build the form

- The pattern in this lesson is 总是 (always – a habit). Locate it in the original interlinear examples below.
- Keep the words in their demonstrated positions; the pattern must fit the intended situation as well as the sentence form.

他总是迟到。

tā zǒng shì chí dào

Word guide: 他 – he; 总是 – always; 迟到 – late.

■ Read examples in context

- In the opening example, 他总是迟到。: 总是 generalises a recurring pattern of lateness.
- Explain who acts, what is described and which time or group is relevant before choosing an English paraphrase.

■ Know the boundary

- 总是 can sound critical here; it is not automatically neutral.
- Adjectives often take 很, but 他总是忙 is possible. A recurring habit is a speaker's generalisation, not a measured guarantee of no exception.

■ Use the distinction

- 总是 generalises a recurring pattern of lateness.
- 总是 can sound critical here; it is not automatically neutral. Adjectives often take 很, but 他总是忙 is possible. A recurring habit is a speaker's generalisation, not a measured guarantee of no exception.

■ Try it with help closed

A classmate arrives late often enough for you to describe it as a habit. Close the examples. Say a Mandarin response, then write it in Chinese. Explain briefly in English what the lesson's pattern adds. Compare with the model, then change one detail and try again.

One possible response: 他总是迟到。

- My response conveys a message that fits the opening situation.
- I can explain the meaning of the pattern, rather than only naming it.
- 总是 can sound critical here; it is not automatically neutral.
- Adjectives often take 很, but 他总是忙 is possible. A recurring habit is a speaker's generalisation, not a measured guarantee of no exception.
- I tried a second response with a name, time, place, or description changed.

Practise this pattern step by step.

终于 (finally, at last)

■ A long wait finally ends

- After waiting for a friend, you see the friend arrive.
- 你终于到了! – 终于 presents arrival as the endpoint of a wait.

■ Build the form

- The pattern in this lesson is 终于 (finally, at last). Locate it in the original interlinear examples below.
- Keep the words in their demonstrated positions; the pattern must fit the intended situation as well as the sentence form.

你终于到了!

nǐ zhōng yú dào le

Word guide: 你 – you; 终于 – finally; 到 – arrived.

■ Read examples in context

- In the opening example, 你终于到了! : 终于 presents arrival as the endpoint of a wait.
- Explain who acts, what is described and which time or group is relevant before choosing an English paraphrase.

■ Know the boundary

- Finally need not be a happy result: 他终于还是失败了 can mark an eventual failure.
- 了 often occurs with completed events, but 终于明白了 and 终于能够独立工作 show different predicate shapes.

■ Use the distinction

- 终于 presents arrival as the endpoint of a wait.
- Finally need not be a happy result: 他终于还是失败了 can mark an eventual failure. 了 often occurs with completed events, but 终于明白了 and 终于能够独立工作 show different predicate shapes.

■ Try it with help closed

After waiting for a friend, you see the friend arrive. Close the examples. Say a Mandarin response, then write it in Chinese. Explain briefly in English what the lesson's pattern adds. Compare with the model, then change one detail and try again.

One possible response: 你终于到了!

- My response conveys a message that fits the opening situation.
- I can explain the meaning of the pattern, rather than only naming it.
- Finally need not be a happy result: 他终于还是失败了 can mark an eventual failure.
- 了 often occurs with completed events, but 终于明白了 and 终于能够独立工作 show different predicate shapes.
- I tried a second response with a name, time, place, or description changed.

Practise this pattern step by step.

几乎 (nearly, almost)

■ Check an almost-full group

- Most of a class have phones, but a few do not.
- 几乎每个人都有手机。 – 几乎 makes the claim almost universal rather than fully universal.

■ Build the form

- The pattern in this lesson is 几乎 (nearly, almost). Locate it in the original interlinear examples below.
- Keep the words in their demonstrated positions; the pattern must fit the intended situation as well as the sentence form.

几乎每个人都有手机。

jī hū měi ge rén dōu yǒu shǒu jī

Word guide: 几乎 – almost; 每个人 – everyone; 都 – all; 有 – has; 手机 – a phone.

■ Read examples in context

- In the opening example, 几乎每个人都有手机。 : 几乎 makes the claim almost universal rather than fully universal.
- Explain who acts, what is described and which time or group is relevant before choosing an English paraphrase.

■ Know the boundary

- 几乎 can also precede an event without 都 or a negative, as in 我几乎忘了.
- Keep the scope clear: 几乎都知道 is almost all know, while 几乎不知道 is hardly know.

■ Use the distinction

- 几乎 makes the claim almost universal rather than fully universal.
- 几乎 can also precede an event without 都 or a negative, as in 我几乎忘了. Keep the scope clear: 几乎都知道 is almost all know, while 几乎不知道 is hardly know.

■ Try it with help closed

Most of a class have phones, but a few do not. Close the examples. Say a Mandarin response, then write it in Chinese. Explain briefly in English what the lesson's pattern adds. Compare with the model, then change one detail and try again.

One possible response: 几乎每个人都有手机。

- My response conveys a message that fits the opening situation.
- I can explain the meaning of the pattern, rather than only naming it.
- 几乎 can also precede an event without 都 or a negative, as in 我几乎忘了.
- Keep the scope clear: 几乎都知道 is almost all know, while 几乎不知道 is hardly know.
- I tried a second response with a name, time, place, or description changed.

Practise this pattern step by step.

只 (only)

■ State the limit of a family's size

- You have one older brother and no other older brothers.
- 我只有一个哥哥。 – 只 limits the number of older brothers to one.

■ Build the form

- The pattern in this lesson is 只 (only). Locate it in the original interlinear examples below.
- Keep the words in their demonstrated positions; the pattern must fit the intended situation as well as the sentence form.

我只有一个哥哥。

wǒ zhǐ yǒu yí ge gē ge

Word guide: 我 – I; 只 – only; 有 – have; 一个 – one; 哥哥 – older brother.

■ Read examples in context

- In the opening example, 我只有一个哥哥。: 只 limits the number of older brothers to one.
- Explain who acts, what is described and which time or group is relevant before choosing an English paraphrase.

■ Know the boundary

- In this frame 只 precedes 有, but its scope is supplied by the predicate and context.
- 只有他知道 means only he knows; do not turn the common position into a claim that 只 always limits the verb's action alone.

■ Use the distinction

- 只 limits the number of older brothers to one.
- In this frame 只 precedes 有, but its scope is supplied by the predicate and context. 只有他知道 means only he knows; do not turn the common position into a claim that 只 always limits the verb's action alone.

■ Try it with help closed

You have one older brother and no other older brothers. Close the examples. Say a Mandarin response, then write it in Chinese. Explain briefly in English what the lesson's pattern adds. Compare with the model, then change one detail and try again.

One possible response: 我只有一个哥哥。

- My response conveys a message that fits the opening situation.
 - I can explain the meaning of the pattern, rather than only naming it.
 - In this frame 只 precedes 有, but its scope is supplied by the predicate and context.
 - 只有他知道 means only he knows; do not turn the common position into a claim that 只 always limits the verb's action alone.
 - I tried a second response with a name, time, place, or description changed.
- Practise this pattern step by step.

Duration + 没 + Verb + 了 (how long you haven't ...)

■ Friends meet after a long gap

- Two friends have not met for ten years and are now greeting each other.
- 我们已经十年没见了。 – 十年 measures the period with no meeting.

■ Build the form

- The pattern in this lesson is Duration + 没 + Verb + 了 (how long you haven't ...). Locate it in the original interlinear examples below.
- Keep the words in their demonstrated positions; the pattern must fit the intended situation as well as the sentence form.

我们已经十年没见了。

wǒ men yǐ jīng shí nián méi jiàn le

Word guide: 我们 – we; 已经 – already; 十年 – ten years; 没 – haven't; 见 – met.

■ Read examples in context

- In the opening example, 我们已经十年没见了。: 十年 measures the period with no meeting.
- Explain who acts, what is described and which time or group is relevant before choosing an English paraphrase.

■ Know the boundary

- Compare 我们见面谈了两个小时, where the duration follows the completed talking.
- Final 了 marks the current relevance of the gap; this greeting does not promise that the gap will continue after the reunion.

■ Use the distinction

- 十年 measures the period with no meeting.
- Compare 我们见面谈了两个小时, where the duration follows the completed talking. Final 了 marks the current relevance of the gap; this greeting does not promise that the gap will continue after the reunion.

■ Try it with help closed

Two friends have not met for ten years and are now greeting each other. Close the examples. Say a Mandarin response, then write it in Chinese. Explain briefly in English what the lesson's pattern adds. Compare with the model, then change one detail and try again.

One possible response: 我们已经十年没见了。

- My response conveys a message that fits the opening situation.
- I can explain the meaning of the pattern, rather than only naming it.
- Compare 我们见面谈了两个小时, where the duration follows the completed talking.
- Final 了 marks the current relevance of the gap; this greeting does not promise that the gap will continue after the reunion.
- I tried a second response with a name, time, place, or description changed.

Practise this pattern step by step.

Time + 才 (not until – lateness)

■ Arrival feels late against a schedule

- You expected to be home by eight, but arrived at eleven.
- 我十一点才到家。 – 才 evaluates the eleven-o'clock arrival as late in this context.

■ Build the form

- The pattern in this lesson is Time + 才 (not until – lateness). Locate it in the original interlinear examples below.
- Keep the words in their demonstrated positions; the pattern must fit the intended situation as well as the sentence form.

我昨天十一点才到家。

wǒ zuó tiān shí yī diǎn cái dào jiā

Word guide: 我 – I; 昨天 – yesterday; 十一点 – eleven o'clock; 才 – not until; 到家 – got home.

■ Read examples in context

- In the opening example, 我十一点才到家。: 才 evaluates the eleven-o'clock arrival as late in this context.
- Explain who acts, what is described and which time or group is relevant before choosing an English paraphrase.

■ Know the boundary

- The expectation is essential; eleven is not intrinsically late for every schedule.
- Time+ 才 often omits 了 in basic examples, but do not extend that tendency to a ban on all constructions with 才 and 了.

■ Use the distinction

- 才 evaluates the eleven-o'clock arrival as late in this context.
- The expectation is essential; eleven is not intrinsically late for every schedule. Time+ 才 often omits 了 in basic examples, but do not extend that tendency to a ban on all constructions with 才 and 了.

■ Try it with help closed

You expected to be home by eight, but arrived at eleven. Close the examples. Say a Mandarin response, then write it in Chinese. Explain briefly in English what the lesson's pattern adds. Compare with the model, then change one detail and try again.

One possible response: 我十一点才到家。

- My response conveys a message that fits the opening situation.
- I can explain the meaning of the pattern, rather than only naming it.
- The expectation is essential; eleven is not intrinsically late for every schedule.
- Time+ 才 often omits 了 in basic examples, but do not extend that tendency to a ban on all constructions with 才 and 了.
- I tried a second response with a name, time, place, or description changed.

Practise this pattern step by step.

先 ... , 再 ... (first ..., then ...)

■ A meal has an order of actions

- Before eating, someone tells you to wash your hands.
- 先洗手, 再吃饭。 – The instruction puts washing before eating.

■ Build the form

- The pattern in this lesson is 先 ... , 再 ... (first ..., then ...). Locate it in the original interlinear examples below.
- Keep the words in their demonstrated positions; the pattern must fit the intended situation as well as the sentence form.

先洗手，再吃。

xiān xǐ shǒu zài chī

Word guide: 先 – first; 洗手 – wash hands; , 再 – then; 吃 – eat.

■ Read examples in context

- In the opening example, 先洗手，再吃饭。: The instruction puts washing before eating.
- Explain who acts, what is described and which time or group is relevant before choosing an English paraphrase.

■ Know the boundary

- 再 links the second step; it does not require a second meal.
- The sentence specifies order but not the exact delay between actions. 然后 can link later steps too.

■ Use the distinction

- The instruction puts washing before eating.
- 再 links the second step; it does not require a second meal. The sentence specifies order but not the exact delay between actions. 然后 can link later steps too.

■ Try it with help closed

Before eating, someone tells you to wash your hands. Close the examples. Say a Mandarin response, then write it in Chinese. Explain briefly in English what the lesson's pattern adds. Compare with the model, then change one detail and try again.

One possible response: 先洗手，再吃饭。

- My response conveys a message that fits the opening situation.
- I can explain the meaning of the pattern, rather than only naming it.
- 再 links the second step; it does not require a second meal.
- The sentence specifies order but not the exact delay between actions. 然后 can link later steps too.
- I tried a second response with a name, time, place, or description changed.

Practise this pattern step by step.

一边 ... 一边 ... (doing two things at once)

■ Two activities overlap

- You listen to music while preparing a meal.
- 我一边做饭，一边听音乐。 – The two activities overlap in time.

■ Build the form

- The pattern in this lesson is 一边 ... 一边 ... (doing two things at once). Locate it in the original interlinear examples below.
- Keep the words in their demonstrated positions; the pattern must fit the intended situation as well as the sentence form.

我常常一边洗澡，一边唱歌。

wǒ cháng cháng yì biān xǐ zǎo yì biān chàng gē

Word guide: 我 – I; 常常 – often; 一边 – while; 洗澡 – showering; 唱歌 – sing.

■ Read examples in context

- In the opening example, 我一边做饭，一边听音乐。: The two activities overlap in time.
- Explain who acts, what is described and which time or group is relevant before choosing an English paraphrase.

■ Know the boundary

- This does not mean every small movement occurs at exactly the same instant.
- 一边笑一边哭 can describe overlapping reactions without claiming deliberate control over both; do not impose intention as a universal condition.

■ Use the distinction

- The two activities overlap in time.
- This does not mean every small movement occurs at exactly the same instant. 一边笑一边哭 can describe overlapping reactions without claiming deliberate control over both; do not impose intention as a universal condition.

■ Try it with help closed

You listen to music while preparing a meal. Close the examples. Say a Mandarin response, then write it in Chinese. Explain briefly in English what the lesson's pattern adds. Compare with the model, then change one detail and try again.

One possible response: 我一边做饭，一边听音乐。

- My response conveys a message that fits the opening situation.
- I can explain the meaning of the pattern, rather than only naming it.
- This does not mean every small movement occurs at exactly the same instant.
- 一边笑一边哭 can describe overlapping reactions without claiming deliberate control over both; do not impose intention as a universal condition.
- I tried a second response with a name, time, place, or description changed.

Practise this pattern step by step.

老是 (always – a complaint)

■ A complaint names a recurring interruption

- A friend keeps interrupting you during conversations.
- 你怎么老是打断我? – 老是 presents the repeated interruption with frustration.

■ Build the form

- The pattern in this lesson is 老是 (always – a complaint). Locate it in the original interlinear examples below.
- Keep the words in their demonstrated positions; the pattern must fit the intended situation as well as the sentence form.

你怎么老是迟到?

nǐ zěnn me lǎo shì chí dào

Word guide: 你 – you; 怎么 – why; 老是 – always; 迟到 – late.

■ Read examples in context

- In the opening example, 你怎么老是打断我? : 老是 presents the repeated interruption with frustration.
- Explain who acts, what is described and which time or group is relevant before choosing an English paraphrase.

■ Know the boundary

- 老是 often occurs in complaints but is not forbidden with positive predicates: 他老是帮我 can express appreciation in context.
- 总是 can also be used critically.

■ Use the distinction

- 老是 presents the repeated interruption with frustration.
- 老是 often occurs in complaints but is not forbidden with positive predicates: 他老是帮我 can express appreciation in context. 总是 can also be used critically.

■ Try it with help closed

A friend keeps interrupting you during conversations. Close the examples. Say a Mandarin response, then write it in Chinese. Explain briefly in English what the lesson's pattern adds. Compare with the model, then change one detail and try again.

One possible response: 你怎么老是打断我?

- My response conveys a message that fits the opening situation.
- I can explain the meaning of the pattern, rather than only naming it.
- 老是 often occurs in complaints but is not forbidden with positive predicates: 他老是帮我 can express appreciation in context.
- 总是 can also be used critically.
- I tried a second response with a name, time, place, or description changed.

Practise this pattern step by step.

才 + Number (only – a small amount)

■ A fare seems surprisingly small

- You expected a ticket to cost more than twenty yuan.
- 这张票才二十块。 – 才 presents the price as only twenty yuan against that expectation.

■ Build the form

- The pattern in this lesson is 才 + Number (only – a small amount). Locate it in the original interlinear examples below.
- Keep the words in their demonstrated positions; the pattern must fit the intended situation as well as the sentence form.

你才二十岁?

nǐ cái èr shí suì

Word guide: 你 – you; 才 – only; 二十岁 – twenty.

■ Read examples in context

- In the opening example, 这张票才二十块。 : 才 presents the price as only twenty yuan against that expectation.
- Explain who acts, what is described and which time or group is relevant before choosing an English paraphrase.

■ Know the boundary

- The price is a small amount from the speaker's viewpoint.
- 二十块才够 instead means only twenty yuan is sufficient; word position and predicate change the scope.

■ Use the distinction

- 才 presents the price as only twenty yuan against that expectation.
- The price is a small amount from the speaker's viewpoint. 二十块才够 instead means only twenty yuan is sufficient; word position and predicate change the scope.

■ Try it with help closed

You expected a ticket to cost more than twenty yuan. Close the examples. Say a Mandarin response, then write it in Chinese. Explain briefly in English what the lesson's pattern adds. Compare with the model, then change one detail and try again.

One possible response: 这张票才二十块。

- My response conveys a message that fits the opening situation.
- I can explain the meaning of the pattern, rather than only naming it.
- The price is a small amount from the speaker's viewpoint.
- 二十块才够 instead means only twenty yuan is sufficient; word position and predicate change the scope.
- I tried a second response with a name, time, place, or description changed.

Practise this pattern step by step.