Word Quest 4

List 16 · Friends and relationships

Vocabulary and example	Write it behalf n. /bɪ'hɑːf/ for someone, or instead of someone Use it with: on behalf of Tip: Only in "on behalf of". I'm writing on behalf of my class. betray v. /bɪ'treɪ/ to hurt someone who trusts you, e.g. by telling their secrets Family: betrays · betrayed · betrayal (n.) He betrayed his friend by telling the teacher.
comfort v./n. /'kʌmfət/ to make someone feel better when they are sad Family: comforts · comforted Use it with: in comfort She comforted her crying sister.
confront v. /kən'frʌnt/ to face a difficult person or problem directly Family: confronts · confronted · confrontation (n.) I confronted him about the lie.
embrace v./n. /em'breɪs/ to hug; also, to accept a new idea happily Family: embraces · embraced They embraced at the airport.
exclude v. /eks'kluːd/ to not let someone join Family: excludes · excluded · exclusion (n.) Tip: Opposite: include. The other kids excluded him from the game.

exercises.lol exercises.com.cn

Vocabulary and example	Write it

guidance n. /ˈgaɪdəns/

help and advice

Family: guide (v./n.)

Students need guidance when choosing a university.

harmony n. /ˈhɑːməni/

living or working together peacefully

Family: harmonious (adj.) Use it with: in harmony

The two families live in harmony.

joint adj./n. /dʒɔɪnt/

shared by two or more people; also, the place where two bones meet

Family: joints Use it with: a joint effort

We wrote a joint report.

mercy n. /ˈmɜːsi/

kindness to someone you could punish

Family: merciful (adj.)

The king showed mercy and set the prisoner free.

mutual adj. /ˈmjuːtʃuːəl/

felt or done by both people

Family: mutually (adv.) Use it with: a mutual friend

Their respect is mutual.

neglect v./n. /nɪˈglekt/

to not take care of something

Family: neglects · neglected

Don't neglect your plants or they'll die.

exercises.lol exercises.com.cn

Vocabulary and example	Write it

offend v. /ə'fend/

to make someone feel upset or insulted

Family: offends · offended · offensive (adj.)

I didn't mean to offend you.

pardon n./v. /'pɑ:dn/

forgiveness; also, a polite way to ask someone to repeat

Family: pardons · pardoned Use it with: I beg your pardon

Pardon? I didn't hear you.

revenge n. /rɪ'vendʒ/

hurting someone because they hurt you

Use it with: take revenge

He wanted revenge for the trick.

settle v. /'setl/

to end an argument; also, to start living in a place

Family: settles · settled Use it with: settle down · settle in

They settled the argument with a coin toss.

spare adj./v. /speə/

extra; also, to give time or money

Family: spares · spared Use it with: spare time · spare a minute

Do you have a spare pen?

tease v. /ti:z/

to laugh at someone in a playful or unkind way

Family: teases · teased

My brother always teases me about my singing.

exercises.lol exercises.com.cn